

VU Research Portal

Grandparent-grandchild relationships in The Netherlands: a dynamic and multigenerational perspective

Geurts, T.

2012

document version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Link to publication in VU Research Portal

citation for published version (APA)

Geurts, T. (2012). Grandparent-grandchild relationships in The Netherlands: a dynamic and multigenerational perspective. [PhD-Thesis - Research and graduation internal, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam].

General rights

Copyright and moral rights for the publications made accessible in the public portal are retained by the authors and/or other copyright owners and it is a condition of accessing publications that users recognise and abide by the legal requirements associated with these rights.

- Users may download and print one copy of any publication from the public portal for the purpose of private study or research.
- You may not further distribute the material or use it for any profit-making activity or commercial gain
- You may freely distribute the URL identifying the publication in the public portal ?

Take down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

E-mail address:

vuresearchportal.ub@vu.nl

There are good reasons to believe that grandparents figure more prominently in family life than ever before. Grandparents are often still alive when grandchildren arrive and share a long period of time with grandchildren. Yet, little is known about grandparent - grandchild relationships in the Netherlands. Are today's grandparents really important in family life more than before? Does the extended period of shared time also mean continuation of the relationship into the grandchild's adulthood? And what happens to the relationship when grandchildren move out of the parental home and take up adult roles? Do childcare activities of grandparents affect support received from children later in life? These questions are central in this study, and the theoretical framework accompanying these questions advances our understanding of grandparent - grandchild relationships. This book thereby sheds light on the position of the intergenerational relationship in contemporary families in terms of connectedness and care-potential.

Grandparent - Grandchild Relationships in the Netherlands

GRANDPARENT - GRANDCHILD RELATIONSHIPS IN THE NETHERLANDS

A Dynamic and Multigenerational Perspective

Teun Geurts

Teun Geurts